

When the information on the communication boards is changed regularly, employees will start to really pay attention so as not to miss anything interesting or important. Department managers should be in charge of keeping their boards updated because it keeps them on top of the organization's status. A communication board setup example is included below.

